

Nebraska's underperforming offense

The Husker's offense was the strength of the team, having to overcome a defense that was the offense to every other offense and how many points they score vs the number of yards they score.

